

The Alice Paul Feminist Jurisprudence Essay Contest Award Reception

Sponsored by
The Women and the Law and Legal Rhetoric Programs
American University Washington College of Law

February 17, 2009
4:00pm – 5:30pm

American University Washington College of Law
4801 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Room 600
Washington, DC

Please join the Women and the Law and Legal Rhetoric programs as we celebrate WCL's long history of contributions to feminist jurisprudence. Each year the programs, with the generous assistance of a private benefactor, sponsor a student feminist jurisprudence essay contest named for Alice Paul, WCL Class of '22. Ms. Paul authored the original Equal Rights Amendment while still a WCL student. We hope to inspire the next generation of scholars, lawyers and activists to make daring and creative contributions to feminist jurisprudence. This year's essay contest winner, Michelle Larson-Krieg, will present her work on Comparable Worth in Minnesota and Ontario: Implications for U.S. Policy.
