OFFICE OF DIVERSITY, EQUITY, AND INCLUSION (DEI)

Denver Law's Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) seeks to cultivate a teaching and learning environment that creates a sense of inclusion, belonging, and well-being for all members of our community. The DEI office provides programming for all students, offering trainings, individual advising, and wellness and belonging resources. The office also helps establish and promote relationships with the broader community through pipeline initiatives, innovative collaborations with bar associations and nonprofits, and continuing legal education programs, among other activities.

ACADEMIC PROGRAMS

Students take the same courses during their first year (or first year and one half for part-time students). Following the first-year courses, students must complete three additional courses, and have the option to select a Certificate Program.

First Year Courses

- Constitutional Law
- Property Law
- Civil Procedure
- Torts
- Contracts
- Criminal Law

In addition to the above courses, first year students have two semesters of the introductory legal research and writing course, Lawyering Process. The course includes first semester motion drafting and second semester brief drafting, followed by first-year oral arguments.

Required Upper Division Courses

- Administrative Law
- Evidence
- Legal Profession

Certificate Programs

Denver Law offers seven Certificate Programs:

- Animal Law
- Constitutional Rights and Remedies
- Corporate and Commercial Law
- Environmental and Natural Resources Law
- International Legal Studies
- Intellectual Property and Technology Law
- Workplace Law

Academic Advising

The Office of Academic Advising provides academic support to all students, and assists with degree planning, course selection, and defining the overall scope of a student's legal education. Students may drop in or request an appointment to meet with Allison at any time during their studies at Sturm.

Study Abroad

Denver Law offers several Study Abroad programs allowing students to take courses at a variety of law schools internationally. Our summer program in Sorrento, Italy, is the most popular as it allows students to travel abroad with DU Law students and faculty over a four-week period in May & June. Also offered is a one-year exchange with the Universidad Pontificia Comillas in Madrid, Spain. Students study at Comillas for their entire 3L year and earn a European LLM degree in addition to their American JD. We have an exchange with the University of Western Australia in which students can study in Perth for 2 years and earn both an American and Australian JD. There is also an opportunity to study for a year or semester at Lund University in Sweden.

The Student Bar Association (SBA) is the official resource and liaison for the student body in matters involving school administration, faculty, and student services. Students should contact current SBA leadership for details on the SBA leadership election process.

ACADEMIC RESOURCES

Most academic assistance to students is provided through the Academic Achievement Program (AAP). The AAP Director, Professor Diane Kraft, is happy to meet with students individually to discuss strategies for succeeding in law school.

Key Contact: Diane Kraft, AAP Director, and Professor of the Practice

diane.kraft@du.edu

AAP Leaders

AAP Leaders are outstanding upper-level students who provide first year students with support in their 1L courses. AAP Leaders coordinate with professors of 1L classes and sometimes attend class lectures. They meet individually with students and hold group sessions that cover topics such as case reading and briefing, note taking in class, outlining, exam preparation, and exam writing.

Writing Clinic

The Writing Specialist, Kate Stoker, works with students to improve their legal writing skills. Students can schedule appointments with Prof. Stoker at <https://calendly.com/kate-stoker> to receive assistance on their writing assignments, revise professional writing samples, and address general writing concerns. She also offers writing workshops and sends weekly writing tips by e-mail. Finally, Prof. Stoker can help connect students who love to write with the many national legal writing competitions.

TRIAL ADVOCACY RESOURCES

The Center for Advocacy oversees and supports the professional development of our students by offering courses, hosting educational activities and sponsoring events in both the courtroom advocacy (mock trial) and appellate (moot court) arenas. Except for the Moot Court Board and its competitions, Professor of the Practice, David Schott, is the key contact for all courtroom advocacy-related inquiries, with the exception of the Moot Court Board and the Student Trial Lawyers Association):

Trial Courses

Students interested in courtroom litigation and trial advocacy, including earning a Concentration in Advocacy, are encouraged to look at the “Litigation Paths” that provide guidance on possible second, third and fourth year courses. Courses offered through the Center for Advocacy include:

- Trial Practice I – Basic Courtroom Skills
- Trial Practice I – Intensive
- Trial Practice I – Basic Courtroom Skills / Commercial Law
- Trial Practice II – Advanced Courtroom Skills
- Trial Practice II – Deposition Skills
- Trial Practice II – Litigation Technology
- Trial Practice II – Motions Practice
- Trial Practice II – Voir Dire
- Trial Practice III – Criminal Procedure Practicum
- Trial Practice III – National Trial Team
- Trial Practice III – Trial Practicum
- Trial Practice III – Mentors Practicum
- Trial Practice III – Instructors Practicum
- Day One – Criminal Practice Lab
- Day One – Civil Practice Lab

Mock Trial & Moot Court Teams

Denver Law has eighteen trial advocacy and moot court teams. These teams compete both nationally and internationally. The teams include:

- ABA Appellate
- Intellectual Property Law
- Jessup – International Law
- NALSA - Native American
- Bankruptcy
- Pace Environmental
- Workplace Law
- Baseball Arbitration

- Basketball Negotiation
- Football Mediation
- Hockey Mediation
- Client Counseling
- Transactional Moot Court
- Tax Moot Court
- Mediation and Negotiation
- Native American Law Moot Court
- Veterans Advocacy
- Vis – International Commercial Arbitration

In addition, Denver Law's National Trial Team competes nationally in ten tournaments each year and students can earn credit for their participation on the team. Tryouts are held in March of each year.

The Hoffman Cup & the Advocates Cup

The Hoffman Cup & The Advocates Cup are managed by the Center for Advocacy.

The Hoffman Cup is the premier trial advocacy tournament at Denver Law and serves as a showcase of our school's talent. It is a weekend-long experiential event where Denver Law crowns the school Champions and the Best Overall Advocate. Participation is open to all upper-level students, and 1Ls are invited to serve as witnesses.

The Advocates Cup is a great opportunity for students to develop and sharpen their trial advocacy skills. All students (1L, 2L, 3L) are welcome to compete as advocates. Each 1L is paired with a 2L or 3L student so both benefit from the mentor/mentee educational dynamic.

Moot Court Board Intra-School Competitions

The Moot Court Board provides students with high quality legal scenarios under realistic conditions. The student-run board manages and produces six advocacy competitions per academic year, including the:

- Negotiations Competition
- Trial Competition
- Appellate Competition
- Client Counseling Competition
- International Appellate Competition
- Motions Competition

Competitions are advertised heavily, but students can contact the current leaders of the Moot Court Board for additional information.

BAR PASSAGE

Bar Passage at DU is driven by the DU Bar Success Program. Scott Johns is the key contact for the program and encourages students to contact him early and frequently:

DU Bar Success Program

The DU Bar Success Program is a free bar prep program available to all graduating students and alumni. It provides instruction, coaching, and feedback throughout the two-month study period immediately prior to the bar exam. The series includes a variety of strategic workshops, practice mock bar exams, individual consultations, and timely feedback on writing assignments. It is intended to serve as a supplement to, and not a replacement for a commercial bar prep course.

Legal Analysis Strategies (L4032)

Legal Analysis Strategies is a course offered to graduating students that provides instruction, guidance, and feedback to develop foundational skills necessary to achieve success on both the bar exam and in the legal profession as skilled legal analysts. The course primarily focuses on core bar exam subjects (constitutional law, civil procedure, contracts/sales, property, evidence, torts, and criminal law/procedure) and includes diagnostic evaluations.

Partnership with Themis Bar Review

Thanks to a donation by the Sturm Family Foundation, DU Law graduates are provided with a complimentary Bar Review Course post-graduation to prepare each graduate for the bar exam, eliminating the out-of-pocket cost of a bar preparation commercial course. DU Law entered a partnership with Themis Bar Review to provide a suite of resources, including their Bar Review Course, to help our students build important lawyering skills while in law school to best prepare them for the bar exam and legal practice.

CAREER RESOURCES

The Office of Career Development and Opportunities (CDO) serves as the primary resource for students seeking jobs, non-credit bearing internships, or clerkships. The CDO also collaborates with the Legal Externship Office in providing student opportunities for pay/credit combination. The CDO hosts a variety of workshops, careers series, panels, mock interview days, networking events and other career-related activities. Students are encouraged to schedule an appointment with a career counselor through their Symplicity account or by emailing the CDO: law-careers@du.edu. See the CDO website for a list of the CDO Team.

Individualized Career Assistance

Career Counselors can advise students about a wide variety of legal practice areas, settings and other alternative career paths in both public and private sectors. Students are encouraged to schedule an initial appointment in the fall semester of their 1L year to develop their application materials and discuss career plans and continue to engage with the CDO throughout their law school careers.

DU Law Careers Online (Symplicity)

DU Law Careers Online (Symplicity) is the online career database and career information hub students and alumni can access to locate resources designed to assist students to develop strong and effective application materials, perform well during interviews, and learn more about how to navigate the overall job seeking process. Symplicity also provides students with information about upcoming programs, networking opportunities and other announcements associated with career development. Students can apply for employment and non-credit bearing internship opportunities through Symplicity or find specific information about application processes outside of the system. Students should keep their online profile up-to-date and visit Symplicity frequently for all of their job seeking needs and questions.

On-Campus Interviews (OCI)

OCI occurs at various times throughout the year and typically targets rising second-year JD students, although students in other class years may be eligible occasionally. Most employers select and interview candidates in the OCI sessions that occur in late summer and early fall. The spring OCI session is open to 1L students, too. OCI is well advertised to students throughout the process and CDO provides informational sessions and one-on-one counseling to help students participate at the highest level. Students learn about the OCI opportunities and apply for positions through Symplicity.

Career Fairs

The CDO facilitates an annual Government and Public Service career fair each year. The CDO also hosts other career fairs and expos that are practice area focused or highlight a specific area of interest, including a Mid & Small Firm Careers Expo and an OCI Meet the Firms event.

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING RESOURCES

In 2013, Denver Law launched its Experiential Advantage™ Curriculum (“EAC”). The EAC includes, among many other initiatives, the Legal Externship Program, the Clinical Programs, Semester in Practice, and the DU/CU Legal Residency Program.

Legal Externship Program

Legal externships are for-credit internships that are supported by faculty guided reflection and oversight. The Externship Program has over 650 externship placements per year. Students are first eligible for externships the summer after their 1L year. Students can search for externships through Denver Law's externship database and students are encouraged to meet with externship faculty to help with their search. Externships are offered across the public and private sectors, both in state and out of state. Externships can be paid or unpaid.

alexi.freeman@du.edu
Rm. 365M

Web Address: www.law.du.edu/externships

Semester in Practice

Semester in Practice, run out of the Externship office, gives students the opportunity during one of their final two semesters to work full time for credit in an externship. Students can earn up to 15 credits doing the SIP and do not take any other classes. Students interested in the SIP should meet with the Externship office ideally early during their 2L year for planning purposes.

Clinical Programs

Founded in 1904, the Student Law Office is believed to be the first legal aid dispensary in the nation. Under the supervision of clinic faculty, law students represent real clients and provide legal services to individuals and communities that often lack access to representation. Through hands-on experience, clinical programs prepare student-attorneys to become skilled, ethical, and client-centered lawyers. As a working law firm within the law school, the SLO houses seven clinics:

Advancing Social Change (This course gives first priority to qualified students in the part-time program at Denver Law)

Civil Litigation

Civil Rights (full year clinic)

Community Economic Development (full year clinic)

Criminal Defense

Environmental Law (full year clinic)

Immigration Law & Policy (full year clinic)

"Full year clinic" means that student attorneys take the course for both fall and spring semesters. All other clinics are one semester long, meaning that students student attorneys are enrolled in either the fall or spring semester. Applications for the full year clinics are taken in the spring of each year for the following fall. Applications for the semester clinics are taken each semester.

DU/CU Legal Residency Program

The DU/CU Legal Residency Program is a partnership initiative with CU Law that provides new graduates with 12-18 months of valuable legal training and experience, and employers with legal staffing at reasonable costs. Participating organizations hire one or more residents from a pool of new JD graduates provided exclusively by the two Colorado law schools. Legal Residents are paid by the employer and follow a Learning Agenda which outlines the type of work the resident performs, the types of skills the resident builds and facilitates regular, meaningful feedback.

Tribal Wills & Wills Lab

The Tribal Wills Project at the University of Denver Sturm College of Law was created to help tribal members write much needed wills, medical powers of attorney, living wills, and memorial instructions.

The Wills Lab (LAWS 4686) is designed to provide students with practical experience with interviewing and drafting for a real client while under the close supervision of a practicing attorney.

Low Income Taxpayer Clinic

The University of Denver Low Income Taxpayer Clinic is an organization independent from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) that represents low-income taxpayers before the IRS in audit, appeals, collections and federal tax litigation. DU's clinic is unique in that it encourages student participants who are earning their Juris Doctorate (JD), Masters in Tax (MT) or Masters of Law in Taxation (LLM) degrees to get involved. Students participating in the clinic gain valuable experience handling client matters, researching individual and small business tax issues and working directly with the IRS and Colorado Department of Revenue.
