International & Comparative Law
UNIVERSITY OF DENVER

NANDA CENTER STIPEND APPLICATION

The Nanda Center awards stipends to help support student participation in international law related events and internships, for example to attend international law conferences, moot court competitions, and interning at a domestic or international organization with an international or comparative law focus.

To apply, complete the application at the link below and provide a description of the opportunity and what you intend to gain from the experience (no more than 500 words). Also, provide a detailed budget, the amount requested, and whether you are receiving funding from any other source. Stipends usually amount to around $500 dollars, but larger amounts may be considered depending on the nature of the opportunity and student need.
